GREEK WARSHIPS SHELL RETREATING TURK FORCES

[By Associated Press.]
CONSTANTINOPLE, June 26.—The Greeks have captured the town of Lemnos, the sea of Marmara from the Turks, Greek warships bombarded day and night the retreating Ottoman forces. The town suffered some damage.

Thousands of refugees are arriving here. The Porte has protested to the allied high commissioners regarding alleged violations of the neutral zone by the Greek troops.

MONEY IN WALL STREET SHOWS EASIER TENDENCY

Capitalists Declare If Finances Remain Good Stock Market Will Advance.

NEW YORK, June 26.—If money remains easy, and it looks as though it will, we will see an advancing stock market, declared one of the largest and most active capitalists in the United States, who has recently been purchasing stocks. "At present there is an easier tendency in money. The banks are also evidencing a disposition to give accommodation to those wealthy men who may be desirous of buying securities."

Judging from the improved recovery of the Federal Reserve Bank, easier money seems assured. Controller of the Currency Clegg also holds that view and told bankers at Atlantic City Saturday that he believed 7 per cent commercial paper would soon be sold.

Although the lowest rate recently recorded for call money on the floor of the stock exchange has been 5 per cent, which is a million of dollars have been loaned out of the Federal Reserve Bank at 4 per cent. The banks have so much money available for loans that they are seeking the brokers these days. Six months ago they sought the brokerage houses and called loans.

The commission houses are carrying few stocks and are small borrowers. Many of them have more working capital than they need and are also competing with the banking institutions in trying to obtain employment for it.

The money rate is controlled by the stock exchange, it does not register truthfully the supply and demand. The exchange admits this, declaring that when there is a plethora of funds and higher when the demand is in excess of the supply, it is not for the fact that the exchange exercises its power to swing the rate in either direction. The exchange has sought to stabilize rates and has thus far been successful.

N. Y. COTTON MARKET REGAINS EARLY LOSSES

Today Is First Notice Day for July, and Large Tenders Are Expected. Friday Is Bureau Day.

[By Associated Press.]
NEW YORK, June 26.—In the trading of the last week in the cotton market, the lowest prices were made on the opening session and the highest on the closing session. At the opening the July price sank below the 10-cent level at 9.55, a new low record price for the season. On the same session, spots fell to the new low record of 19.35 for middling.

These prices were the lowest in about seven years. At the lowest of the week, the trading months were 64 to 82 points under the close of the preceding week, but all of this loss was regained in the latter session, prices finally working 13 to 15 points over the close of the preceding week. In the results, the active months were 1 to 4 points down on the week, except on January, which was unchanged at 12.13.

The early weakness was due to liquidation of the long interest in preparation for going over the first notice day for July, which came at the close of the week. Following the initial weakness, there were reactions upward on realizing by shorts, while more or less new buying came in on less satisfactory weather conditions in the belt, the strike in Texas of the cotton pickers, and reports of increasing complaints of damage by the boll weevil. At the end of the week an active and firm market developed because of the eagerness with which speculators took up July tenders. First notices passed for that month amounted to 25,000 bales, and they were stopped on a rising market.

The coming bureau day will be one of the most important of the season because its statistics will measure the progress of the crop at a critical stage of the growing season, estimate the acreage under cotton and count the indicated yield. The condition report will carry the crop down to June 25, and will compare with 7.7 as the count on June 25 a year ago. This figure will be used, quite generally, as a comparison for this year's percentage of condition. This week's private estimates on acreage ranged from a decrease of 24.75 to an increase of 26.1 per cent, compared with the acreage of a year ago.

Old-Timers May Return to Game

Famous Players of a Generation Ago Will Meet Youngsters.

[By Associated Press.]
CLEVELAND, O., June 26.—Cy Young, Chief Zimmer, Charlie Hickman, Larry Lajoie, Jim McEwen and other famous old ball players better known to the fans of a generation ago than to those of today, are coming back late baseball. Not to the major leagues, or even to the minors, for these veterans have no money to replace the stars of today, but plans are being made for all of them to appear in an exhibition game when the 125th anniversary of the founding of Cleveland is celebrated.

The team of oldtimers will meet a selection of Cleveland youngsters and efforts are being made to get some of the greatest ball players of baseball history in the Oldtimers line-up.

Cy Young, who stayed in the big leagues until he was well past the forty-year mark, will pick for the Oldtimers, according to the plans, and Chief Zimmer, his old battery mate, will pick for the youngsters. Both Zimmer and Young were world champions and both are still related by the gray-haired fans will be at third base. Harry Turner, the old-time flash of second base, at first, Larry Lajoie, still spoken of as the greatest all-time second baseman, will captain the team and play second.

In the outfield will be Elmer Flick, Jim McEwen and Harry Bay, all stars of the day. Ned Ball, who gained fame years ago through an unassisted triple play while with Cleveland, and George Cuyler will be the substitutes.

Each thinks this team will hold its own against any other, despite the age of the players.

"Give us a few days to get into practice and you will see that we won't make any alibis," he said.

LITTLE WORRY IN CAMP OF CARPENTIER AS FRIENDS "KID" FRENCH CHAMPION

Veterans of World's War Discuss Topics of All Kinds. References to Dempsey and His Hitting Prowess Are Not Barred.

[By Robert Edgren.
[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

NEW YORK, June 26.—If any one is worrying over the coming fight, it isn't our old friend Georges Carpentier. I spent yesterday afternoon with Georges at his training quarters, coming a little late, because I didn't want to "horn in" on his secret practice. If he had any. Found Georges, Decamps, Captain Mallet, Pierre Mallet, Journeaux, Charles Ledoux and Gus Wilson sitting on the porch, engaged in kidding Carpentier's secretary, a tall, gangling young man, who was being made for all of them to appear in an exhibition game when the 125th anniversary of the founding of Cleveland is celebrated.

"None of us can leave the camp," said Carpentier. "Me—I can only sit here and look at the automobiles. How do we know that you behave as my secretary should behave, so modestly, so discreetly? You—I think perhaps I should not let you go. You should tell me where you go. Is it to dine with some fair one, perhaps? I am not sure that I should allow it. Yes—no."

The secretary blushed to the color of an Arizona sunburn, and wriggled uneasily, so that he nearly fell off the porch rail with embarrassment. Carpentier winked at Captain Mallet. "Yes," said the captain, seriously. "I think Gus Wilson will have to go with you to see that you conduct yourself with credit. You are very young to visit New York alone."

Here the youthful secretary fell off until the next morning, when he started the railing and landed in a flowerbed.

He beat it hot for the gate. Carpentier leaped back and laughed until he nearly rolled over on the porch and there was no fake merriment about it, either.

Carpentier turned the guns on Georges.

"You should have your hair cut," he said. "You will never frighten anyone with that hair. It is too long. You must have your hair clipped short. You are far too pretty for a fighter."

"I can see the advantage of that," said Carpentier, looking at his reflection in a mirror. "I have a few days to get into practice and you will see that we won't make any alibis," he said.

"Yes," said Mallet, "but you have only been working in the legs. Georges, you have not been shot through the head."

"Guess you saw some fighting," I suggested. "Yes," admitted Captain Mallet. "I saw a fight. It was a fight between Georges and a man named Klaus. Georges was fighting him very hard and was unhurt. One of his legs was hurt, but he kept on inside and he held the blood to prevent showing it. Klaus hit him in the stomach and the blood spurted from his mouth. Not knowing his legs were cut, I thought he was on the back of the neck so hard that my face was driven against the floor. I was on my hands and knees, when I saw a plain foul, but I did not wish to win that way."

"It is not true that I try to claim fouls for Georges," said Decamps. "But that was a very bad foul."

"Did you see him get into the ring in the Klaus fight?"

"Yes," said Decamps. "That was my mistake. Georges was fighting him very hard and was unhurt. One of his legs was hurt, but he kept on inside and he held the blood to prevent showing it. Klaus hit him in the stomach and the blood spurted from his mouth. Not knowing his legs were cut, I thought he was on the back of the neck so hard that my face was driven against the floor. I was on my hands and knees, when I saw a plain foul, but I did not wish to win that way."

"I have immense appetite," said Carpentier, looking at his reflection in a mirror. "I have a few days to get into practice and you will see that we won't make any alibis," he said.

"Yes," said Mallet, "but you have only been working in the legs. Georges, you have not been shot through the head."

"Guess you saw some fighting," I suggested. "Yes," admitted Captain Mallet. "I saw a fight. It was a fight between Georges and a man named Klaus. Georges was fighting him very hard and was unhurt.
